PLUMBING CONTRACT AT NORWICH STATE HOSPITAL

Awarded to Brown Bros. of Middletown at Meeting of Building Committee-Work Progressing Well.

When the finance committee of the Norwich State hospital met on Friday the bids for the plumbing in the new buildings being erected were opened by the building committee and the contract was awarded to Brown Bros. of Middletown. There were four bids submitted, two from this city, one from New Haven and one from Middletown. The work on the buildings at the homital is prigressing places and the hospital is prigressing nicely and the new coal bin, which was a separate matter, is being rushed along. Other building operations about the city are being advanced and some new ones started. At the First National bank the construction of the new front has been started. Some girders have been placed on the foundation and two courses of the stonework have been laid above the sidewalk. The first

Three Deceased Members

By direction of the board President Trumbull had prepared a memorial upon the three deceased members, which was read by him, and a vote was pussed that it be offered to the press, passed that it be offered to the press, with a request to have it printed. The following was the tribute to those who had passed away during the year.

During the year just closed we have had the sad duty of placing upon our records the death of Nathan Lee Bishop, October 14, 1909; Henry Fitch Bishop, January 14, 1910; Bela Peck Learned, March 14, 1910.

It is impossible in this necessarily brief review to place on record fitting tributes to the meomory of these three members, and yet it would be an unpardonable omission to let them pass without mention.

Nathan L. Bishop.

Nathan L. Bishop.

The life of Nathan Lee Bishop was one of remarkable activity and usefulness. Born March 6, 1841. in what is now the town of Sprague, he was educated in that town, in the New Britain Normal school and in the Williston Academy of Northampton, Mass. His record was an honorable one. Enlisting in August, 1862, as a private in the 21st regiment, Connecticut volunteers, he continued in that regiment until November, 1863, when he was appointed first lieutenant in the First regiment, U. S. colored troops, being later promoted to the adjutancy of this regiment. In this position he served honorably until the close of the war in 1865.

in 1865. His career as an educator now began. After a brief service in schools in Ohio, he returned to Norwich, where he served for some ten years as principal of the graded schools in Baltic and Greeneville. In January, 1877, he was appointed superintendent of schools of the Central district of Nor-was appointed superintendent of schools of the Central district of Norwich, which position he held at the time of his death, thus covering the long term of 32 years in this position. The following were some of the positions, in addition to his regular duites as superintendent, which he held during this period, and which, from their number and importance, are perhaps the best commentary on the usefulness and activity of his life:

Deacon in Broadway church, president of the Round Table club, trustee of the Dime Savings bank, member of the Conneticut public library committee; president, in 1892, of the National Roque association, and secretary and treasurer from 1894 until his death; superintendent, by state appointment of public schools in Waterford, Conn.; president of the Connecticut Teachers' Guild, of which he was the founder and promoter; member of the Connecticut society of Sons of the American Revolution.

Revolution.

His membership in our society of the Founders of Norwich was not of long standing, and we can only regret that it was cut short before he had an opportunity to join more fully in our activities. Mr. Bishop was a direct decendent of Governor Bradford.

Dr. Henry Fitch Bishop. although joining our society at a comparatively recent date, was in his 90th year at the time of his death, having been born in Lisbon, Conn., on the 3d of April, 1820. He was an early graduate af the oidest dental college is existence, and practiced dentistry in Worcester, Mass., for forty consecutive years after his graduation. He introduced the use of anaesthetics in Worcester, Springfield. Hartford, New Haven and New York in 1846. Leaving Worcester, he commenced practice in Hanover, Germany, and formed there a European society of American dentists, making many distinguished friends and acquaintances, among whom was the celebrated Dr. Evans of Paris, noted for assisting the Empress Eugenle in her escape from France at the time of the Franco-Prussian war.

Dr. Bishop was a genial, courteous gentleman of the old school. He was an enthusiastic genealogist and historian. At the age of 81 he published a genealogical sketch, as he modestly calls it, of Lisbon, Conn., containing valuable information regarding his native town and its inhabitants. The annual meeting of the Society of the Founders of Norwich, held at the Norwich club on Friday afternoon at 8 o'clock, was one of the best, both in attendance and interest, as nearly fifty were present for the seasion. It was called to order by President Jonathan Trumbull and the minutes of Secretary Gilbert S. Raymond were read and accepted.

President Trumbull reported on one meeting of the board of managers during the year. At this the deaths of three members had been noted—Principal Nathan Lee Bishop, Dr. Henry Fitch Bishop, and Major Bela Peck Learned. These following four names had also been voted to membership: His record as a prominent citizen of Norwich is also most honorable, including, in addition to his insurance business, many important trusts of a public and private nature, among which may be mentioned the vice presidency of the Norwich Savings society, commander of Sedgwick post, G. A. R., governor of the Society of Colonial Wars in Connecticut, dencon in the Park Congregational church, and for many years superintendent of its Sunday school. He was also a member of the Military Order of the Legion of Honor, and of the Connecticut Society of Sons of the American Revolution.

These officers were elected: President, Jonathan Trumbull; vice president, William C. Gilman: secretary, B. B. Later Mr. Raymond was elected to the board of managers to take Mr. Bishop's place there.

Founding of an Indian Town.

Rev. William DeLoss Love of Hartford was then introduced by President Trumbull to read the paper of the afternoon upon the Founding of an Indian Town. This was dealt with in such an informing way as to be of special interest. It treated in complete detail the founding of this town for Connecticut Indians in the midst of the Oncidas of New York through the Icrosicht of Samson Occum, to whose reputation as a missionary must be added that of an Indian statesman, said Rev. Mr. Love. This Indian statesman of the Mohegans foresaw what later became the policy of the government in treating with the Indians. He appreciated that the Indians. He appreciated that the Indians would never become civilized unless he were made dependent for subsistence upon the soil and he saw that Connecticut Indians of the period before the revolution would become extinct if they remained long enough in their ancestral surroundings and in their ancestral surroundings and in their close association with the white race. Rev. Mr. Love's paper traced the way in which these Indians acquired clear title to their land from the state of New York, under the just treatment of New York, under the just the action while Clinton was governord later immigrating to Green Bay, Wis., where they had bought land from Indian tribes along the Fox river. Applause greeted the conclusion of the paper. Miss Perkins then delighted her hearers with Stenhanner's arrangement of The Rosary, for which she gave as an encore Spring by Mrs. Beach. The accompaniments were by Miss Caroline H. Thompson.

One hesitates to add more to the mess of wiedom and unwisdom, infor-mation and misinformation, discussion, percussion and plain "cussion," about that universal thing indescribable known as the klas. But here is a conknown as the klas. But here is a contribution to the melange which it really seems should not be missed.

It is only recently that a writer who modestly concealed his identity has set forth what may be considered from its appearance, as the same theory of the kiss. He declares that the kiss is a natural expression of natural sentiments, a lovely thing, in its proper sphere. When the kiss means something, he deems it safe. When it doesn't mean anything, there is no need to question its unsafety, for it is utterly without reason.
